Not a 'Super' finish for Patriots Sunday

Malden High school students and staff have certainly had their share of Super Bowl victory celebrations in the past, but this time around it was not meant to be as our New England Patriots fell to the Philadelphia Eagles, 41-33, last night in Minnesota. Despite 505 passing yards by QB Tom Brady, the Patriots must wait 'til next year!

It was a tremendous turnout for our first Parent-Teacher Conference Night and our faculty, staff and administrators all contributed to a great evening

To All Malden High School staff: What a night! It was certainly an amazing turnout for our Parent Teacher Conference Wednesday night. Thank you all for taking the time to review and discuss the progress of our students with the parents and guardians that came in to see us. It was impressive to see so many parents lined up and waiting to get in at 5:15 p.m.. Thank you to all staff members that shared pictures, art work, and student work for the slide show presentation. I noticed many parents stopping to take a look. A special thank you to our School Librarian Mary Liberge you came up with the idea and student Rowan Marcus who worked with Mary to create the slide show. I don't know why I continue to be amazed at the amount of time and effort that you all put into your passion of educating. I have witnessed it for nine years and still gives me cause to stop and reflect on how lucky the students at Malden High School to have you all. Thank you again!

Is there is a younger Malden High School fan than the lovely Maya Wong? Just a few months with us, Maya caught some MHS Golden Tornado spirit early when her dad, MHS faculty member Mr. Brian Wong brought home a "NEDLAM" school mascot doll that he obtained in school through the Class of 2020 school fundraiser.
