

Golden Tornado Watch

The Sunday night email formerly known as "This week and beyond", will now be the GoldenTornado Watch.

I hope you are all enjoying this amazing weekend, four absolutely perfect days. As we move into the week it appears that there is no new or exciting news about the status of our schedule. Again, both sides are working hard to come to an agreement. That said, there will be plenty of time to work with your content groups this week. There are still some questions around grading and just what assessments will look like. This is a great time to come together and have discussions and share ideas of what fits your department in this platform.

The Directors have planned three days of outstanding PD. The bulk of the building based time this week will be devoted to student outreach, as we talked about during House Meetings on Thursday. I understand that the Journal feature in X2 has caused some anxiety for some. This feature is a great way for you to document outreach in a way that can be seen by all. It will help to cut down on the excessive student reach out that caused additional stress for our students.

I am here if you have any questions or concerns. Have a great week of collaboration. We are inching closer to seeing our kids. It is funny how everything seems a little bit better when we get to lay eyes on our kids!
